Welcome to About Android

Discussion Topics

- Why This Workshop?
- What Qualifies Me To Lead This Workshop?
- Why Android is Hard to Present
- Goals of the Workshop(s)
- Introduction to Android Devices
- Android Settings

Why an Android Workshop

- We didn't have an active Android Workshop
- Many members said they wanted one
- Android is the most popular Mobile OS
- It's also a learning experience for me
- Pat kept bugging me to do one

What Qualifies Me To Do An Android Workshop?

- Nothing in Particular
- I've never had an iPhone
- I'm fairly good at Internet Research
- I've had a lot of Android Devices
- I used to be pretty good at Rooting

What's Hard About Doing An Android Workshop

- Open Source – Anyone Can Modify
- Many Manufacturers – Added Bloatware
- Cell Carriers – More Bloatware
- Updates Not Always the Same

I would be willing to bet that everyone here has differences in their phone layouts, system settings, look and feel, etc.

Goals of the Android Workshop

- 1) Demonstrate General Phone Layout
- 2) Demonstrate Android Settings
- 3) Demonstrate the Google Play Store
- 4) Demonstrate Alternative App Stores
- 5) Backing Up your phone

Things To Keep In Mind

- I'll be demonstrating the latest (almost stock) version of Android
- Your Settings probably won't be in the exact same places as mine
- Android is Customizable – Our phones look different
- The Workshop Focus is on Settings – We'll talk about Apps in the final week
- Many settings can be found in more than one place
- We're Focusing on Phones – Tablets are similar but often different
- Depending on carrier and manufacturer, you might not have the same updates on your phone
